Palin Parent Child Interaction Therapy is an evidence-based therapy approach for children up to seven years old who stutter. This presentation will equip therapists to understand early childhood stuttering and its causal and influencing factors, providing a framework for this comprehensive approach. The interactive workshop will then give an overview of the assessment of early stuttering and how to devise an individually-tailored therapy program for the child and parents. The treatment will be described and demonstrated using video examples. This will include skills for working with parents on interaction styles and strategies to implement in the family to enhance a child’s fluency and communication confidence.

Day ONE
• Session 1: Describe the research findings related to the causes of childhood stuttering.
• Session 2: Describe Palin PCI in general terms, how it differs from other approaches and the evidence base.

Day TWO
• Session 3: Describe the Palin Model and the assessment of early stuttering.
• Session 4: Describe how to work on parent child interaction using video recordings to facilitate fluency and confident communication.
• Session 5: Describe how to work on family strategies in the home setting.
• Session 6: Describe how to work directly with the child on strategies to enhance fluency and confident communication.
