CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY | FULLERTON
As the Department of Communications celebrates 60 years as a leading academic unit, COMM remains one of the largest academic majors at CSUF and one of the largest mass communications programs in the United States.

Future communications professionals have an abundance of opportunities for excellence at Cal State Fullerton. Rigorous, relevant, hands-on curriculum in advertising, entertainment and tourism, journalism, and public relations provide a grounding in ethical practice. Signature programs like COMM Week, the Daily Titan, OC News, Tusk Magazine and PRactical ADvantage Communications, provide world-class experiences beyond the classroom.

We are also thriving with new initiatives. Among them are new certificate programs in digital media, photography, radio/audio and partnerships with the Latino Communications Initiative, including a Spanish for Hispanic Media certificate, a border reporting class, and a Spanish-language newscast, Al Dia.

The Department Strategic Plan outlined in these pages represents the faculty’s roadmap for the next five years as COMM strives to be the largest and most diverse, comprehensive, student-centric and future-oriented mass communications department in the country.

The faculty spent one academic year in focused inquiry to develop the objectives and strategies outlined here, including through surveys, discussion groups and open forums. The plan was adopted unanimously.

The Strategic Plan embraces the mission and values of CSUF and serves to support the University’s Strategic Plan.

On behalf of the outstanding faculty of the Department of Communications, I am proud to share this Strategic Plan as we look forward to the next five years as Titans Reach Higher.
