

Kids to College Program

This year the College of Communications was excited to assist in the Kids to College program, offering 6th graders a sneak peak at CSU Fullerton. Organized by Beatriz Tapia, and brought to our college by Assistant Dean Bockman, Kids to College strives to inform students about higher education at an early age, especially among minority students. As these eager minds visited our college, they were introduced to Speech Communication with a listening activity from Professor Mierop, and took on the role of journalist at the Daily Titan, led by Professor Sage and student leaders Jackie Kimmel, Kimball Maw, and Roseanne Ramos. We had a great day with these students and hope that we opened the door to a university education for many of them.

To learn more about Kids to College on our campus:

http://campusapps.fullerton.edu/news/2006/kids_to_college.htm